

Neurology Visit

Girl Version

My Hospital Story

Boston Children's Hospital

October 2016

Today I am going to Neurology for an appointment. I will do many things while I am at Neurology. This story will tell me what my appointment will be like.

I will take an elevator to get to Neurology.

Then I will walk on the colorful floor.

Next I will walk to the front desk and stand very still while my parents let the front desk worker know that we have arrived.

Next, I will sit in a chair and wait until my name is called. I can play quietly with a toy while I wait.

When it is my turn someone will say my name. I will stand on the scale to see how much I weigh.

Next I will stand very still with my back against the wall and look forward with my eyes. A measuring glass will touch the top of my head.

Next I will have my blood pressure checked. They will place a cloth on my arm which will give my arm a hug. It may feel tight, but this is okay.

Now it is time to go to a new room. I will walk down the hallway with my doctor.

The doctor will talk to my parent while I sit in a chair.

Now it is time for the doctor to do a check up with special tools on the wall. These special tools help the doctor to see my ears, eyes, and mouth.

The doctor may look in my eyes and mouth.

The doctor may measure my head.

My doctor may check my reflexes with a special tool, but this doesn't hurt.

My doctor may ask me to walk, run or jump in the hallway.

Finally, I stand with my parent near the front desk and wait while my parent talks to the person behind the desk.

When I am all done they might have a sticker for me to choose.

My appointment at Neurology is all done.
Time to say goodbye.
